January was a pretty quiet month with things just getting started for the semester. I sat on a committee which involved appointing a replacement At-Large to the Institution. In Faculty Senate, it was introduced that a USG representative will be allowed to sit on the search committee for the search for the schools provost. The provost is effectively the head of all faculty at the school, so this is very relevant to my role as At-Large to the Faculty. This commitment will involve an extensive amount of time for stakeholder meetings and interviews in the near future. Students were polled to cover some of the questions presented in a subcommittee of Undergraduate Council regarding Finals. The potential changes are due to the lack of testing space as a result of the Green Center renovation. In UGC a proposal was passed to limit the amount of total withdrawal hours a student can have. I believe this policy has the student’s best interest in mind and will only affect a very small of people on this campus.
